

Transferring Qualifications and Recognition of Prior Learning

Bolton College recognises prior and experiential learning so if you are coming to us with qualifications or experience in the subject area you want to study then please talk to us. This allows us to ensure that you are directed to the right qualification for you. Also, you may be exempt from some units of the qualification you wish to undertake.

If you have started the qualification previously and think you have already achieved some elements then, depending on how long ago this was, we may be able to help you find the evidence of this.

If you have already started a course with us but have changed your mind or need a break in learning for personal reasons we may be able to help. Even if you have decided that Bolton College is not the right place for you we can still help you take the next step. Where you have already achieved part of a qualification but need to relocate we may be able to provide evidence of achievement to date.

In the first instance, please contact your personal tutor for help and advice.